DESIGN FOR THE SENSES

SOFTLINE proudly presents the design news, adding to our extensive range of innovative design furniture for private homes and public spaces. Form and function have been at the core of the SOFTLINE brand since 1979, and the design additions are no different. Seamlessly merging functionality and comfort, they speak a modern design language while subtly echoing the heritage of the brand in fresh and inspiring ways.

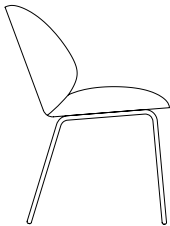

The new designs align with SOFTLINE's sustainability values, one of which is recycling. Fully removable covers can be changed in case of wear and tear or changing interior trends – a sustainable solution to give the furniture a longer life.

As in previous years, we have worked closely with international designers to develop this new selection of high-quality furniture for a global audience. Furniture that bridges the gap between functionality and aesthetics, confidently balancing shapes, tactility, and innovative design details unique to SOFTLINE.

LONY

Sascha Sartory

With a sculptural and monolithic appearance, LONY is a lounge element designed to stand out. In a world where daily life is increasingly busy and complex, it calls to us with its simple design and soft curves, giving us the peace and simplicity we seek. With its prominent shape, LONY has the personality to stand alone or be arranged in a group, elegantly defining the lounge area. Versatile, functional, and stylish in private homes and public spaces.

VISTA

Busk + Hertzog

Great comfort is essential when we're seated for an extended period – whether it's around the dining room table with guests, at the restaurant, or at work during meetings or workshops. The new versatile chair in the VISTA range meets exactly that need, featuring a softly rounded and curved backrest designed to support the anatomy of the body correctly. This ensures a consistently comfortable sitting position, while allowing for natural, free movement with the support the body needs. The clean design and simple proportions of the VISTA chair add a modern and elegant touch to the interior without compromising on comfort.

BEAM

Johannes Steinbauer

BEAM does it all, and by adding the minimalist table, it becomes even more functional. The design is inspired by the stoic and solid look of massive wooden beams. With a sense of security and stability, BEAM is an invitation to sit down and relax, wait, or work. The upholstered seating unit rests on an elegant frame, creating an eye-catching contrast while adding a floating lightness and modern expression. BEAM is available in the sizes small and large, and the table can be added to both sizes. When furnishing a large space, BEAM can be arranged in countless ways, allowing you to create smaller spaces within the space.

JUNTO

Sascha Sartory

The JUNTO modular sofa is much more than an extraordinarily flexible modular concept. It's also a sustainable furniture investment designed to be expanded and updated instead of being replaced. The three core parts consists of an armrest element and seat elements in two sizes. That's all you need to create a truly unique lounge area or a personalized sofa. The design is timeless, and the interchangeable modules allow for expansion as needed or replacement of modules in case of damage or wear. Additionally, the covers of the armrest and the seat elements are designed to be removed quickly and replaced easily. All of this extends the lifespan of JUNTO, helping to reduce the environmental impact.
